

Zero tolerance for workplace bullying online training course

Zero tolerance for workplace bullying online training strengthens the ability of supervisors and members of the work community to address unaccountable work behavior and workplace bullying, as well as to reinforce a culture of accountable conduct.

For whom?

The online training is primarily intended for all supervisors of the company, but an individual person can also complete the training. In combination with the online training for staff, the online trainings are suitable for the entire organization's personnel or for the entire team in a specific unit.

Would you be interested in participating in the promotion of a functional, well-being work community?

The training for supervisors is divided into six modules:

- What is workplace bullying?
- Sexual harassment
- Raising the issue and investigating
- Prevention and fostering culture
- The supervisor's professional role
- Supervisor's coping and support

Learning objectives of the training for supervisors:

- To recognize inappropriate treatment and the risk of inappropriate behaviour at my workplace.
- To know how to bring up and solve situations of inappropriate treatment.
- Learn how to foster a positive operational culture and prevent inappropriate treatment.
